

From Dick (read by Mark Busse, Andrea's husband):

This is how it all started - the night that Stella's daughter, Marion, and Dick Morton got married. We had just returned from the ceremony and were greeted by Stella with the Polish toast to our health. From that point on my relationship with Stella, my mother-in-law grew into a long and strong friendship, which lasted for 70 years until she passed away a few days ago. We got to know our strengths and weaknesses and especially our mutual sense of humor. She helped us raise our children, advised us to own our own house early in life, which proved to be the best advice of all. We swam together, played cards together, studied nature together and shared life's hills and valleys together. Even though we lived apart for the last few years we kept in contact by phone at her birthdays. I will truly miss her.

Sincerely, her son-in-law

Dick
